Found a Victim.

The hopeless First district Democracy after looking over the field and spending many anxious nights, through their congressional committee, which met in solemn convocation in this city yesterday, have selected a man to take up the strenuous life of a candidate where Col. T. Moore Jackson left off. His name is W. E. Haymond, and he hails from the county of Braxton.
Mr. Haymond is comparatively unknown in this part of the district, and those Democrats who do know him are not very much enthused over his selection. But what matters it. Captain Dover's election has been assured all along, and however strong the man put up by the Democracy he would have made no impression upon the normal Republican majority of the district.

Attitude of Gold Democrats.

It may be that a few Gold Democrats are straying back into the lines they turned their backs on in 1896, but we do not think they are flocking to Bryan to any appreciable extent. Men like ex-Secretary of State Olney are supporting Mr. Bryan with a view to "party regularity" and are looking to possibilities four years from now. The rank and file of those Democrats who supported Palmer and Buckner, and those who voted openly for McKinley see no reason to change their opposition to Bryan. There is the same menace to-day that was so apparent in 1896.
Mr. Franzel, national secretary of the Gold Democrats, accents the feeling of this body of citizens in his statement given out some days ago of the campaign plans of that organization, in which he said:
"First and foremost, Bryan still represents all that is set forth in the Chicago platform, the principles of which caused the Gold Democrats to form a separate organization in 1896. In addition to this, we now have his action at the Kansas City convention, where he placed such emphasis on the 16 to 1 idea of a direct and unadorned opposition to everything the Gold Democrats have espoused. In my opinion the Gold Democrats who supported the Indiana-platform in 1896 cannot consistently support him at this time. If they do it must be that they see in the so-called threat of imperialism charged to the present administration by reason of its attitude toward the Philippines something more dangerous to the country than the heresies and fallacies of the Chicago platform, or that they have political ambitions. . . .

"The most offensive thing to Gold Democrats is the Chicago platform. It was this departure from Democratic and sound principles that called the Gold Democrats into life. This organization is based on the Indianapolis platform, which condemns in the strongest terms the Chicago platform. The Kansas City platform is a reiteration of the Chicago platform, and is even worse in that it re-affirms and re-emphasizes the odious document in specific terms. We have determined to carry on a vigorous campaign against Bryan, and what he stands for. We shall do this by means of speakers and literature."

Chickens Coming Home to Roost.

Governor Hill, Carl Schurz, Bourke Cockran, Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier Journal, and Richard Croker, are working for the election of Bryan this year. Of course Croker was regular in 1896, but all the others came out against Bryan and free silver. They are putting up the "imperialism" spook as the paramount issue this time and are anxious to forget all they said about free silver. Croker declared for expansion when that subject was before the senate and said that free silver was a dead issue.

Carl Schurz is working with the Bryanites this year. Four years ago he was a conspicuous gold man. He made a speech before the Honest Money League of Chicago against the idol he now worships. He said in that speech: "And at what price will the ultimate result be gained in case of Mr. Bryan's election? At the price of the most violent and destructive crisis on record, such a crisis as can only be brought on by a sudden subversion of the standard of values and of the whole business credit."

Bourke Cockran, who promises to use his eloquence for Bryan this year, said four years ago in the New York Herald of August 2nd: "I regard it (the political situation) as the greatest in the history of the country, exceeding in importance the crisis of 1860. The movement launched at Chicago is an attempt to paralyze industry by using all the power of the government to take property from the hands of those who created it and place it in the hands of those who covet it. I decline to follow Mr. Bryan in a crusade against honesty and the rights of labor."

Mr. Hill sulked in the 1896 campaign. He was one of the foremost advocates of gold in the convention that year. In his speech against the silver platform he then said: "Was it wise to assail the supreme court of your country? . . . That provision, if it means anything, means that it is the duty of Congress to reconstruct the supreme court. . . . The burden you have imposed upon us in the support of silver in this platform is all that can reasonably be borne, but in addition to that you have put upon us the question of the preservation of the public credit and have brought into it the question of the issuing of bonds, the question of the reconstruction of the supreme court of the United States, the question of life tenure for office. It is full of incongruous and absurd provisions which are proposed to be made the tests of true Democracy."

Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, is said to have swallowed Bryan. After the nomination, he telegraphed home from Europe to his paper in 1896: "Another ticket our only hope. No compromise with dishonor. Stand firm." He followed this up on his return from Europe with extended statements, in which he eloquently advocated the support of Palmer and Buckner.
Richard Croker is not always consistent in his political conduct. In an interview published in the New York Herald January 7th, 1899, he said: "I believe in expansion. I believe in holding whatever possessions we have gained by annexation, purchase or war."

Grosvenor at Parkersburg.

The Republicans of Wood county opened the campaign in Parkersburg last night in a way that must have made their Democratic friends, who have been relying on apathy in the party ranks, stare. General Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, was the principal speaker, and the way he trimmed the ruffled feathers of Mr. Bryan was something thoroughly enjoyable.

General Grosvenor paid particular attention to the ignis fatuus issue of imperialism that Bryan wishes to make paramount in this campaign, claiming that he (Bryan) has charged the administration of McKinley with crimes of greater magnitude than the crimes which brought the head of Charles I to the block in England, and that in his rage and disappointment that the people of the country have not risen up in his support he now seems to be determined to do as much damage to the American system and the American government and the future of the American people as lies in his power. In other words General Grosvenor gave ample and irrefutable reasons tending to show Bryan's total unfitness for the occupancy of the presidential chair.

A Rainbow Chaser.

The monumental silliness of our Market street neighbor in attempting to impress upon its readers that there is comfort to be extracted by the Democracy out of the election returns from Maine, is of a piece with its other antics in trying to deceive the people. It must have a poor conception of the intelligence of its clientele when it asks them to believe that if the ratio of gain by the Democrats in Maine and the Republican loss were distributed over the country Bryan's election would be assured.
The most sanguine Republican did not expect or even ask for more than 25,000 plurality, but when it is over 33,000 what can be said of rainbow chasers that see in the results of last Monday hopes of a Democratic victory in the nation in November. The abnormal plurality of 48,423 in 1896 was without question due to the fact that some 27,000 Democrats refused to support the Democratic state ticket, over 20,000 of them remaining away from the polls altogether. Monday's returns show that only about 7,000 of these 27,000 have returned to the Democratic fold, as the party vote has only increased from 31,453 in 1896 to about 41,000. The Republican vote has dropped from 82,876 in 1896 to about 74,000, but as about 3,000 Democrats voted the Republican ticket four years ago the Republican vote is only about 5,000 below the high water mark prior to 1896 of 79,405 votes. The Democratic vote was about 20,000 below the highest vote of the party, 61,345 in 1888.

An Ominous Silence.

Why is it we have not heard the definite results of the election in Arkansas, which voted one day earlier than Vermont? The results from the Green Mountain state have been definitely ascertained, and the plurality of 32,000 has not been questioned. Of course it was a foregone conclusion that Arkansas would elect the Democratic candidates, but the first reports of that election indicated that the Republicans had made large gains. That would never do, so the avenues to further intelligence of the vote were closed lest the final figures would severely lay the tender susceptibilities of National Chairman Jones, who lives in Arkansas.
The early reports showed that the Republicans held 28 per cent of the vote of the state, when they had only been accustomed to getting 21 to 25 per cent. What is the reason for delaying the final announcement so long? It is easy to surmise. Such gains for Republicans in the south would not inure to Bryan's benefit. Besides they have a Gobel election law in Arkansas that can be made to fit any condition. Let Arkansas speak up, especially since we have heard from Maine.

There is no question or doubt but what West Virginia will cast its electoral vote for McKinley, elect the whole Republican state ticket and return Stephen B. Elkins to the United States senate.

In getting comfort out of the Maine election Democrats are chasing rainbows and extracting sunshine from cucumbers.

Republicans only asked for 25,000 plurality in Maine, but the people insisted on swelling it to over 33,000.

The Wolf in the Fold.

New York Sun: The genuinely Bryan-esque story that Mr. H. H. Rogers, president of the Ohio River railroad, had refused to allow Mr. Bryan's private car to be attached to a regular train on that line was just as true as lying. It was a phantom, a Bryan spook as real as imperialism or the green cheese moon. In denying the story, however, Mr. Rogers has done a service to Mr. Bryan, whose zeal against monopolists is notorious. Mr. Rogers recalls the fact that one of the directors of the Ohio River road, "a large stockholder of the Standard Oil Company, presided at Colonel Bryan's meeting at Parkersburg."

The name of this erring Bryanite and Octopod is the Hon. Johnson N. Camden, and he used to be a Democratic senator in Congress from West Virginia.
At Cambridge, Ohio, on September 7, Mr. Bryan said:
"If the workingman does not know how to vote in order to hurt the trusts, he should watch the trust magnate and then vote the other way."
We invite the doubting workingman, and in particular Mr. Bryan, who works hard as a farmer with a camera, to watch how the Hon. Johnson N. Camden votes.
To think that this money changer and monopolist should have presided at a Bryan meeting!

Along with it there was a urinary weakness and heavy bearing down pains in the bladder. When I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Logan Drug Company's, I was so used up that I could scarcely get around. I began taking them, and felt relieved almost at once. I continued their use until I felt well and hearty like my own self."

The Automaton chess player is a wonderful thing. It plays a perfect game inside its limitations. But once outside the routine moves, the Automaton is a failure. Much of medical practice is as limited in its way as the moves of the Automaton at chess. No medical man can move with success outside his experience and training. For that reason the local doctor, often gives up as hopeless a case which is quite curable when greater skill and experience are brought to bear.

It is the so-called "incurable" and "hopeless" cases, which come in such numbers to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for treatment. Men and women with weak lungs, obstinate coughs, emaciated bodies and fevered cheeks have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the true elixir of life. "The blood is the life" and the "Discovery" by increasing the activity of the blood making glands, and restoring to healthy action the digestive and nutritive organs, places the entire system in a condition to throw off disease. There is no alcohol, opium, or other narcotic in "Golden Medical Discovery."

Mr. Chas. Hunwick, of Lenox, Macomb Co., Mich., writes: "I have never felt better since I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I think I am doing finely. I do not cough now and I can sleep like a school boy. I think I will have to change my mind about 'Patent Medicines' as I never had much faith in them; but you must know that I have been treated in two hospitals and by three doctors besides, and received no benefit, so I think your medicine is the only medicine for me."

GOVERNOR ATKINSON Says West Virginia is Safe for McKinley—Bryan's Blunder in Preaching Hard Times—Imperialism Cry An Insult to Intelligence of the People.

In an interview with the Washington Post, Monday, Governor Atkinson said in part: "Now, about my own state, West Virginia is for McKinley first, last, and all the time. The people of my state are too smart to be affected by the bogie issue of imperialism, that sawdust dummy, a mask worn to deceive the people. You can't find a weak-kneed Republican in the state of West Virginia. Mr. Bryan made a very bad blunder by trying to preach hard times to West Virginians. Our state is most prosperous. Why, the railroads can't furnish us enough cars to haul our coal out of the state. The Chesapeake & Ohio has been forced to order 1,500 new eighty-ton cars for its coal trade. Every day chronicles the opening of a new coal mine. The state is developing its lumber resources actively; the railroads are all the time building branch lines into the rich timber lands, and as for oil, the state is full of it. The farmers have ready markets at their own prices. Under Cleveland's administration they could not sell anything. A yearling is worth more now than a three-year-old was when Cleveland was President. And, then, Mr. Bryan comes down to West Virginia and tells us how hard up we are, &c. He can't pound such foolishness into the heads of the people of my state; they know too much.

"This imperialism cry that the Democrats are raising reminds me very much of the time when Johnson was President, and this country purchased Alaska at a ridiculously low price. What a howl was raised about it! It was too far away! The President was a fool, &c. And now there isn't a man living who does not agree that the purchase of Alaska was a most successful diplomatic negotiation, and ten years from now every man of any degree of common sense will admit that in holding onto the Philippines, President McKinley and the Republican party were right. The Philippines are a gate to the Chinese Empire, and our trade with China is already enormous.

"The idea of any one bringing up any such talk as that the old Republican party, which has always stood for liberty, is going to break up the government and form an empire! President McKinley, when he was a lad of nineteen, shouldered a musket and fought for his country. One million men did the same and ninety-nine out of every hundred are his friends and will vote for him next November."

"I want to say that this attempting to make imperialism the issue of the campaign is a personal insult to the intelligence of this country."

When asked what he thought about the sensational flop of Senator Wellington, Governor Atkinson said: "I have known Senator Wellington a good many years and esteem him greatly. What I want to say is this: When a man turns on his party like Mr. Wellington did, every one knows that the reason is because of personal feeling."
